

Investment Objective

The Aspiriant Risk-Managed Equity Allocation Fund ("RMEAX" or the "Fund") seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation while considering federal tax implications of investment decisions.

Description

- The Fund invests in a broad and diverse group of equity securities, such as common stock, preferred stock and depository receipts, of companies in countries within developed and emerging markets.
- Investments in a well-diversified portfolio of high quality and low volatility stocks, which tend to have lower risk, and may help the Fund protect capital, particularly during periods of market weakness.
- The Fund and certain sub-advisers will consider the tax implications of investment decisions and may apply tax management strategies to attempt to improve after-tax returns.

Fund Performance Comparison and Summary

As of 12/31/2017

RMEAX generated a net investment gain of 5.58% during the fourth quarter, slightly trailing its benchmark, the MSCI ACWI Index (the "Benchmark"), which returned 5.73%. For the full calendar year, RMEAX captured over 90% of global equity returns, generating a gain of 21.78% versus 23.97% for the Benchmark. The Fund's exposure to emerging markets aided performance throughout the year. Emerging markets, as measured by the MSCI Emerging Markets Index, outperformed all major equity markets during 2017 with returns in excess of 37%. Conversely, low or minimum volatility stocks, particularly in the U.S., fell short of the broader equity indices as growth names vastly outpaced yield and value opportunities across all geographies. Similar to prior quarters, the Fund's Beta Equities exposure, implemented with the iShares MSCI ACWI ETF, comprised only 2% of the portfolio's assets.

Investment Strategies

Beta Equities are investments in a portfolio of securities that broadly mirrors the underlying holdings of an equity benchmark and closely replicates the risk and return characteristics of the benchmark. Beta Equities exposure can be gained through passively managed mutual funds and exchange-traded funds (ETFs), as well as separately managed accounts.

Defensive Equities are investments in a portfolio of securities that has a similar return profile of an equity benchmark but with lower volatility or risk. Defensive Equities tend to be characterized as (residual interests in) companies with stable profitability, leading market shares, high returns on capital, and low leverage. Defensive Equities exposure can be gained through actively managed mutual funds and separately managed accounts, as well as factor-based passively managed ETFs.

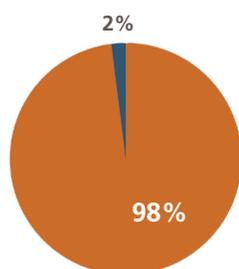

Risk Management

Country Exposures. Defensive Equities managers can adjust portfolio weightings to or away from markets or countries with forward return expectations significantly different from the All Country World Index (ACWI). By applying a macro or top-down overlay on the investment landscape, managers can focus their industry and security selection process on the markets with the most favorable opportunities.

Industry and Security Selection. Using quantitative techniques and/or fundamental analysis, Defensive Equities managers dynamically screen companies using a variety of factors to rank industries and companies with the most desirable characteristics to construct and rebalance a portfolio. Managers may, from time to time, also utilize certain tax management strategies to improve after-tax returns.

Overall Portfolio risk management is also undertaken at the Fund level as the opportunity set for equity markets changes. As the outlook for equity returns improves, we expect to increase the Fund allocation to low-cost Beta Equities strategies to most efficiently capture upside market movements. Conversely, we anticipate holding a larger weight to Defensive Equities when the return outlook for equities deteriorates in order to soften any downside volatility.

An investment in the Fund is subject to risks, and you could lose money on your investment in the Fund. The principal risks of investing in the Fund include, but are not limited to, investing in smaller companies with limited resources and the use of predictive models. A value oriented investing style may go in and out of favor which may cause the Fund to sometimes underperform other equity funds.

Foreign securities have additional risks including currency rate changes, political and economic instability, less regulation and market liquidity. Investments in emerging markets involve even greater risks.

The adviser and sub-adviser(s) may be unable to construct the Fund's investment portfolio such that the intended federal tax implications, when making investment decisions with respect to individual securities, are achieved.

The Fund is exposed to the principal risks of the underlying funds in which it invests. These risks include counterparty risk, derivatives risk, equity market risk, focused investment risk, foreign securities and currencies risk, large shareholder risk, leverage risk, liquidity risk, management and operational risk, models and data risk, political and economic risks, short sale risk and small and mid-cap company risk. Further unmanaged information about these and other risks may be found in the prospectus.
